여러분을 똑똑하게 만드는 음악 공부

Hi, students! This is your principal, Mr. Johnson. Today, I want to talk to you about the

I know many of you think that music has nothing to do with academic success. ① But recent research suggests that music is not as useless as you think.

② In fact, playing music actually improves your language skills. ③ According to a new study, playing music makes you become more sensitive to sound. ④ And we all know that sensitivity to sound is important for language learning. ⑤

To encourage everyone to play music, we are offering free music classes this semester. You can sign up for different classes on our school website. There will also be a free orchestra concert every Friday. I hope many of you participate in these events!

3. M: Are you looking for an electronic device that is powerful and yet portable? If so, we have the perfect item for you. This has the same functions as any computers, but it is small enough to put in your bag. Its seven-inch touchscreen has amazing clarity and brightness. It also provides an on-screen keyboard you can type on. This allows you to edit your document anywhere you want. Best of all the battery lasts for ten hours.

M: Are you planning to walk or take public transportation?
W: I'd rather take a subway or a bus because I'm in a hurry.
M: Usually, the quickest way to get there is to take a taxi.

M: Not at this hour. You'll be stuck in traffic.

W: What do you suggest then?

W: So should I grab a taxi?

M: I encourage you to take a bus to City Hall and then transfer to a subway.

W: That sounds reasonable. Thanks.
